Fair book available online

The Worth County Fair is just a few weeks away, set for June 19-23. The Worth County Fair Book is now available online for those that want to look at the publication.

The annual fair book features information on fair events and activities. It was sent to homes in Worth County this past week.

One change was announced after the fair book was printed. The Worth County Fair Board announced recently that wristbands would replace buttons for this year's fair. All button information in the fair book, including the price, applies to the wristbands as well.

Besides in mailboxes throughout the county, it can also be found online at nwdanchor.com/worth-county-fair-book-2024.

Help asked to remove flags at cemetery

With Memorial Day passed, the local veterans and volunteers that placed the flags at Sunset Rest Cemetery are asking for help to remove them.

The flags will be taken down tomorrow, Thursday, May 30, at 6 p.m.

The flags will not be taken down if it rains and the flags are wet. They will only be taken down if they are dry.

Cayleigh's wish takes family to Disney World

By JoAnn Lower

The Stromley family moved to Northwood in May 2021. Chris, Christina and their four beautiful children, 14-year-old Cayleigh, 9-year-old Brody, 7-year-old Evie and 5-year-old Hunter, came here from Omaha, Nebraska, to be near Chris's family.

Like her brothers and sister, 13-year-old Cayleigh attends N-K. An 8th grader, she also plays every single sport.

"It was about two years ago when Cayleigh was playing basketball that she began complaining of shoul-

County budget amended despite disputed spending

Confusion about the budgeting process, a vehicle purchase and salaries led the Worth County supervisors to cut the county's public health budget for the next fiscal year. In other business, the supervisors officially approved the sale of property near the casino.

A budget amendment was on the agenda for the May 13 meeting.

Local governments approve budgets for their revenue and expenses, in recent years, in mid-April, several months in advance of the start of the fiscal year, in July. That means county departments have to estimate their income and spending as much as 18 months in advance.

Naturally, actual figures change over the course of that time. When that happens, local governments like the County have to inform the public via official newspapers and hold hearings to provide the public a chance to weigh in on the updated budget figures.

Not typically a topic of dispute, the Iowa legislature made changes last year that are expected to limit the ability of the County to levy funds to cover salaries of county employees and the services the County pro-

Primary election set for Tuesday

This Tuesday, voters will cast their votes in the primary election. The primary decided who will represent political parties in the November general election.

Three county offices will be up for election in the November general election.

Current auditor Jacki A. Backhaus is unopposed to represent the Republican party for re-election. No candidates filed for the Democratic nomination.

Current deputies Jesse Luther and Chad Wurtzel filed to appear on primary ballots to be the Republican candidate for Sheriff. No Democrats filed for the office.

Current supervisor Mark Smeby and current Hanlontown mayor Rick Scholbrock will appear on ballots to represent the Republican party as the candidate for supervisor representing District 2. No Democrats filed for the office.

Lions and Lifeserve sponsor blood drive June 7

Human blood cannot be manufactured! Donations can help in many ways and here are just two: cancer patients need up to eight platelet units per week, and premature infants need up to five units of red blood cells. Donations are tested 15 times (11 for infectious diseases).

A blood drive will be held on Friday, June 7, from 1 p.m. until 5:30 p.m. at the fairgrounds, community center room sponsored by the Northwood Lions Club. There will be a sign indicating its location on Highway 65 and Third Avenue North, as well as signage at the entrance of the building. The Northwood Lions Club and Life Serve are asking for more participation by area citizens because of the growing need for blood. Potential donors may give whole blood donations after 56 days or what is referred to as "double red" after 112 days, according to national standards

N-K FREE summer meals underway

The Northwood-Kensett Community School District is offering free meals this summer.

The district is providing free lunches to any child ages 1-18. There are no family income requirements, and those participating do not have to live in the district to receive lunch.

Children enrolled in daycare, or participating in youth and community activities and groups are welcome. Adults may also participate in the program for a cost of $4.85 per person.

Lunch meals will be served at the N-K elementary cafeteria through July 26, with the exception of July 4-5. Serving time is 11 a.m. to 12 noon.

Those taking part in the meal should enter the elementary cafeteria through

From Estonia to Kensett, Fafilova spends school year at N-K

DENISE EHLENFELDT AND OLIVIA FAFILOVA

By JoAnn Lower

It was a Friday afternoon last September when Denise Ehlenfeldt received a surprise phone call asking her to host a foreign exchange student.

"I was leaving the next day for a week to visit my niece and help with her kids. In a moment of weakness, I heard myself say 'yes' to the caller. In just 10 days I would be the host mother to Olivia Fafilova, a high school sophomore from Estonia."

Arriving back home the following Saturday, Denise had another surprise. She had COVID. "I didn't want to expose this young lady to the nasty virus, so I made a quick call to my sister Deanna Madsen. Deanna met Olivia at the airport and took the young woman to her house for a couple of days."

After those first confusing hours, things have worked out well. Within no time, Olivia settled in with Denise at her home in Kensett.

"I knew nothing about Iowa or that it even existed," Olivia remarked. "When I learned that Denise was going to be my family and that her pets are chickens, I was happy and my friends in Estonia were excited for me."

"I had wanted to come to America for a long time and originally thought I'd like to go to California. But when I went to California on spring break, I was happy I didn't end up going to school there. It's much more comfortable to be in Iowa."

Because of her short stay with the Madsens, Olivia got to know Scott and Deanna's son Christopher.

"Starting school in a new country was scary der pain," her mom remembers. "A couple weeks later we took her to a Mason City doctor who referred her to physical therapy, but did not order X-rays. After two months of Cayleigh's shoulder showing no signs of improvement, an X-ray was taken. The X-ray showed a tumor."

With no time to waste, Caleigh's parents took her to Mayo Clinic in Rochester. "They got us in really quickly. On March 23, 2023, we received a call from Cayleigh's doctor saying she had osteosarcoma, an aggressive bone cancer that affects children and young adults. This was a diagnosis that no parent wants to hear."

Cayleigh, now 14 years old, is not doing well. She finished her original chemotherapy treatments at the end of 2023 but at that time still had over 100 tumors growing in her lungs. A recent PET scan shows a tumor has developed in her left hip.

At the invitation of the Make-A-Wish Foundation in Florida, Cayleigh, her mom and siblings went to Disney from April 14-20.

"We were very blessed to get Cayleigh's wish granted," Christina said. "We stayed at Give Kids the World Village, a place that goes above and beyond. Most of the people who work there are volunteers. Since Chris wasn't able to come along, a team met us at the airport and helped with everything we needed. The weather was perfect, no rain. It was a phenomenal experience for all of us – huge smiles on each of my kids' faces every day. It was magical. Cayleigh made everybody else's dream come true."

These days Cayleigh struggles knowing she won't be able to grow up or graduate, get married or have kids. "This is just not fair; we love her so much. Still, I am grateful to get some time with her to try and fit in some things she wants to do in life. We are praying for a miracle."

Chris Stromley is employed at Heidelberg Materials in Mason City; Christina, a stay-at-home mom. Check out her Facebook business page: "Stromley Sweets & Snaps."

A couple of things we can do to help Cayleigh and her family in their urgent time of need: NSB Account: "Cayleigh's Support Squad." GoFundMe: "Cayleigh needs a miracle."

Budget

vides. The budget concerns have meant that the focus of budget talks has been on finding ways to reduce expenses.

The latest of those came with the budget amendment, and a purchase by the County Public Health department.

Supervisor Mark Smeby brought the question. He mentioned that the amendment feature a purchase of a vehicle by public health, for $25,000. Smeby's issue was that the expense was not balanced by any revenue.

It was the second of two vehicles purchased by public health in the fiscal year. The expense for the first vehicle was offset by a grant from the WCDA.

Public health officials had discussed their options earlier in the year, and had been told that a purchase was possible. However there was confusion between public health and other county officials about whether that was advice or permission.

Without some kind of grant or other funding, the second vehicle was an unexpected expense, paid out of the County's general fund.

Smeby said that with the budget challenges they are facing, allowing county departments to spend without revenue in place would open a big can of worms and set a potentially costly precedent.

Supervisor AJ Stone agreed, saying that if they didn't have the money in place, they should have budgeted the vehicle purchase in the next fiscal year.

Smeby had sought legal advice about what the supervisors could do with the situation.

The supervisors could approve the amendment as is.

They could refuse to approve the amendment. If they did that, Smeby said that could make it difficult for public health to cover its payroll.

The supervisors could also approve the updated budget, while requiring public health to reduce their budget for the next fiscal year by $25,000.

Smeby said that the latter of those options may be the best. He said it would allow public health officials and board members to look at ways to share with other counties or departments, and other ways to save money, or other ways to bring in revenue.

The supervisors approved the budget amendment, with the provision that public health would have to cut $25,000 from the coming budget to offset the cost of the vehicle purchase.

In other business at the meeting, the supervisors approved the sale of an area of land owned by the County, located near the northern watertower at the casino area interchange.

TMM Johnson, LLC purchased the property for $60,000.

The purchase does not include the area underneath the water tower or a well on that property. The County plans to connect the water tower to the interchange water system in the near future.

but Christopher helped me to find my classes and introduced me to other kids."

"My school in Estonia is quite different. All the grades are together, preschool through high school. Here, the high school is separate and everyone knows everyone. My favorite subject is ceramics; my favorite teacher is Mrs. Abbas. I like this school. I have friends."

On Saturday, April 27, Olivia went to prom with Levi Wood. She wore a "pretty red dress" borrowed from a friend.

The Fafilova family lives in Estonia's capital city of 1.349 million people. A country in Northern Europe, Estonia borders the Baltic Sea and the Gulf of Finland.

On May 18 Olivia's father planned to come here to pick up his daughter. Before he was set to take her home, they planned to tour parts of the United States.

"My dad is a businessman and travels all over the world," Olivia said. "My Mom has her own cattery where she raises and breeds hairless cats. We also have werewolf cats."

A werewolf or wolf cat is a breed of cat derived from a natural mutation found in domestic short-haired cats. Although commonly described as looking visually arresting, perhaps invoking horror films to some owners, these cats have sweet-natured personalities and appreciate human affection, being labeled as "dog-like cats."

Denise Ehlenfeldt, Olivia's host mother, has lived in Kensett for 36 years and has chickens in her backyard. Her husband passed away four years ago. Denise is retired but works part time as a para at the Northwood-Kensett High School. She helps Rhonda part time, mows lawns, has a huge garden and cans food.

Art Farm Iowa opens June 1, with ongoing displays, 4th fun on the way

Art Farm Iowa will be hosting a variety of events throughout this summer, bringing artists and art from across the country and the world to North Iowa.

Art Farm Iowa is located north of Northwood, combining ongoing art displays in the midst of an agricultural setting.

The farm opens on June 1, with regular hours. It is located at 4953 Olive Avenue.

The ongoing exhibit, Iowa Fresh, features the work of artist and painter Lucretia Torva, based out of Phoenix, Arizona.

Torva will also be visiting the farm in June, and will be painting a mural while there. The mural will be unveiled as a part of the closing of the Iowa Fresh exhibit on June 28.

Artist Maw Reh will be at the farm as well during the month of June. Maw is a first generation Karenni-American artist from the Phoenix area. He was born in a refugee camp in Thailand, on the border with Burma. His parents fled Burma to America when he was 11.

On June 18-19, artist and poet Ken Boe will be at Art Farm Iowa to share his unique processes, including automatic drawing and painting, bullwhip painting and guerilla poetry.

From June 26 through July 5, artist YAI will visit the farm, painting a mural and other live painting.

On July 3, Art Farm Iowa will host a meal and art show, "Green Plants and Spam," featuring a meal focusing on the pigs that were a presence on the farm for many years, and artwork based on Spam. The meal will feature the food of area chef Jessica Baldus and artwork by renowned international artist Lucy Sparrow.

Sparrow will bring an original felt exhibition to Art Farm Iowa throughout the month of July. Sparrow has had exhibits at Rockefeller Plaza in New York City and the Standard Hotel in Los Angeles. She also had an installation in place for the late Queen Elizabeth's 90th birthday and Platinum Jubilee.

Art Farm Iowa will also host 4 days of July 4th fun, with art, live music, food and vendors.

The events will be held on July 4, from 3-10 p.m.; July 5-6, from 10 a.m. to 7 p.m.; and July 7, from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Live music at the July 4 event will include Elisha Marin on July 4, Marty Garrett on July 5 and Neal Simmons on July 6.

Admission to 4 Days of July 4th Fun is free.

that the mortgage on the above-described real estate be foreclosed, that a special execution issue for the sale of as much of the mortgaged premises as is necessary to satisfy the judgment and for other relief as the Court may deem just and equitable. The attorney for the Plaintiff is David M. Erickson, whose address is The Davis Brown Tower, 215 10th Street, Suite 1300, Des Moines, Iowa 50309-3993, Phone: (515) 288-2500, Facsimile: (515) 243-0654.

NOTICE

THE PLAINTIFF HAS ELECTED FORECLOSURE WITHOUT REDEMPTION. THIS MEANS THAT THE SALE OF THE MORTGAGED PROPERTY WILL OCCUR PROMPTLY AFTER ENTRY OF JUDGMENT UNLESS YOU FILE WITH THE COURT A WRITTEN DEMAND TO DELAY THE SALE. IF YOU FILE A WRITTEN DEMAND, THE SALE WILL BE DELAYED UNTIL THREE MONTHS FROM ENTRY OF JUDGMENT. YOU WILL HAVE NO RIGHT OF REDEMPTION AFTER THE SALE. THE PURCHASER AT THE SALE WILL BE ENTITLED TO IMMEDIATE POSSESSION OF THE MORTGAGED PROPERTY. YOU MAY PURCHASE AT THE SALE.

You must serve a motion or answer on or before the 25th day of June, 2024, and within a reasonable time thereafter, file your motion or answer, in the Iowa District Court for Worth County, Iowa. You are notified that Worth County District Court utilizes the Electronic Document Management System. You are directed to the Iowa Court Rules Chapter 16 for general rules and information on electronic filing and, in particular, Division VI regarding the protection of personal information in court filings. If you do not, judgment by default may be rendered against you for the relief demanded in the Petition.

If you need assistance to participate in court due to a disability, call the disability coordinator at 641-421-0990. Persons who are hearing or speech impaired may call Relay Iowa TTY (18007352942.) Disability coordinators cannot provide legal advice.

Make-A-Thon to be held at NIACC on June 9

North Iowa Area Community College's Innovation Workspace will host a Make-A-Thon competition from Friday, June 7, to Sunday, June 9, 2024. This free, high-energy event will challenge participants to turn creative ideas into real solutions.

Teams will design and build a prototype that will solve a mystery challenge. They will present their project to a panel of judges for the chance to win prizes. The public is invited to this science fair-style presentation day on Sunday, June 9.

To solve the prompt, teams will have access to the equipment in the NIACC Innovation Workspace, including 3D printers, laser cutters, and more. While this equipment will be available to participants, its use is not required. "It's about the ideas; it's not just about the technology," said Anthony Riesen, NIACC Innovation Workspace Facilitator.

The Make-A-Thon is open to ages 16 and up. Teams of four can sign up together and individual signups will be placed into a team. Registration for this event is free and materials are provided. The registration deadline is May 25 and only five team slots are available, so sign up soon.

To register to compete, email Anthony.Riesen@niacc.edu or call 641-422-4110. Volunteers are needed and can sign up at https://givepul.se/44unlz.

Elderbridge celebrates 50 years of services to older adults

This year marks the 50th anniversary of Elderbridge Area Agency on Aging. Elderbridge has experienced many changes throughout the last 50 years, but one thing has remained the same and that is its mission to advocate for and empower older adults, caregivers, and those with disabilities to pursue independent healthy lives. Elderbridge is proud of where it came from and even more excited and proud of what's to come.

Established in 1973, under the Older Americans Act, Elderbridge covered a 14-county region and was part of NIACC (North Iowa Community College) in cooperation with ICCC (Iowa Central Community College) campuses. The first director of Elderbridge was Charles Andrews. In 1976, the Carroll area joined and merged to form a 20-county service area. Fast forward to 2013, Northwest Aging Association merged with Elderbridge, which brought about the expansion of services into 29 counties. Shelly Sindt became the CEO of Elderbridge in 2017, after sharing the role with Donell Doering for 3 years. Shelly Sindt remains the CEO of Elderbridge, and the agency has 35 staff currently within four office locations. The services and programs offered within Elderbridge have continued to expand and the staff provides excellent coordination of information and services. Elderbridge is proud of the work they do and the consumers they have the privilege to work with.

Elderbridge is celebrating its 50th Anniversary in the upcoming months. The events will also spotlight important activities related to older adults' and caregivers' needs and contributions. Come and help us celebrate!

Love is better shown than said

Love is sometimes more clearly shown in actions than in words. Small acts of kindness or generosity are often better expressions of love than flowery words. There is nothing wrong with telling others that we love them, but, we should be sure that our words are not contradicted by our actions. It is easy to say that we love our families, friends, and our fellow human beings while showing utter contempt or disregard for them. Often the more time we spend with people, the harder it may be to act in a kind and loving manner towards them. The man who must isolate himself in order to stay on good terms with his fellow man probably lacks the loving disposition of the saint who can actually live in the world amongst her fellow humans and still show them kindness and love. We would all do well to work harder at showing our love, especially to those who may be difficult to love, instead of merely saying those three easy words.

My little children, let us not love in word or in tongue, but in deed and in truth.
– New K.J.V. 1 John 3:18

Cook Bookin'

We may live without poetry, music and art; We may live without conscience and live without heart; We may live without friends; we may live without books; But a civilized man cannot live without cooks.

Italians have olive oil running through their veins and I'm no exception. Olives and their wonderful oil are a big part of life. I always have at least three kinds of olives in the fridge plus unopened jars in the cupboard. And..lots of olive oil too. Italians use this wonderful oil not only for cooking but as a bath oil, a facial oil, a salad dressing and more. Carol Firenze, author of "The Passionate Olive: 101 Things to do with Olive Oil" (2005, Ballantine Books, NYC) shares my enthusiasm. This is not a cookbook in the usual sense of the term; it's a comprehensive collection of ways to incorporate olive oil into the reader's everyday life. The first part of the book outlines the history of olive oil beginning in 6000 BC when olive cultivation began in Syria. As I mentioned, this IS a comprehensive book!

Cleaning With Olive Oil: You can clean wood, slate or tile floors by first sweeping up all the large particles, then adding a FEW drops of olive oil AND lemon juice to a dry mop. Use this to go over the floor leaving a shine and fragrance. Ms. Firenze stresses only a few drops. I think mixing the oil and juice and using a few drops of that might be easier.

You can remove oil-based paint from your skin by applying extra virgin olive oil with a soft cloth. It may take a few minutes if the paint is dry but consider it an oil massage!

Removing tar from concrete is a task that isn't speedy. Mixing 1/2 cup of olive oil with 2 tablespoons of baking soda is one solution. Dip a dry cloth in this mixture and rub on the tar spots, re-saturating the cloth as needed, until the spots disappear. Of course, the larger the spot the more time and elbow grease will be needed.

Olive Oil For The Body: For dry or brittle nails, soak your fingernails in warm water and then in warm olive oil for five minutes. Remove the excess oil with a clean cloth and massage any remainder into the skin of your hands.

For "frizzy" hair, apply just a drop of olive oil when your hair is wet. Put that drop into the palm of your hand and rub your hands together. Then finger-comb it through your hair before you dry it. Not too much oil; that will make your hair greasy!

Rejuvenate your lips! No matter what the season, dry or chapped lips are no fun. Olive oil can help with this. Combine 1/2 of a very ripe banana and 2 tablespoons olive oil. Whip these together to make a paste and apply to your lips. Leave on 20 minutes then rinse off. Your lips will look and feel great.

Olive Oil For Your Pets: During the winter, your dog's nose can become dry or cracked. Put a small amount of olive oil on the nose and very gently massage it in. Dogs are prone to licking their noses so you might have to keep the muzzle closed for a minute or so to allow the oil to do its magic. The same treatment helps paws as well. Just be sure to distract the dog for 5-10 minutes or it will just lick the oil away.

If your cat has a problem with hairballs, Ms. Firenze tells us that adding a few drops of olive oil to the cat's food once a day will help those hairballs stop irritating the cat's digestive system. They will also be expelled more easily (not a pretty sight but necessary for the cat's health!)

And, Now On To Cooking With Olive Oil: Yes, there ARE recipes in the last chapter of this book. People often have questions about what kind of oil to purchase since you'll find bottles on the shelf with different names. "Light" olive oil is still pure olive oil but it is often from the third pressing of the olive so there is little of the greenish color and fragrance. Also not much taste. This oil is fine for cooking where neither flavor or color is noticable but the health benefits are important. Virgin oil is often from the second pressing and, again, is lighter in color but does have more body in aroma and taste. I usually use this for adding to recipes rather than using it for sautéing. Extra-Virgin olive oil is from the first pressing and has the traditional fruity aroma and green color. This is what is to be used in uncooked recipes such as salad dressing, drizzling on grilled meats or fish or with herbs for dipping chunks of crusty bread. Oil is much better for our bodies on bread than is butter. The following recipe is adapted from the chapter titled "Cooking Ideas":

Fresh Tomato Sauce with Black Olives

6 vine-ripened tomatoes, preferably Romas, peeled and sliced in half lengthwise.
1/2 cup pitted Kalamata (or other oil-cured) olives, chopped
2 large cloves fresh garlic, minced
3/4 cup extra-virgin olive oil
6 anchovy fillets (optional but they add wonderful flavor)

Season the inside of the tomato halves with kosher salt, freshly-ground black pepper and garlic powder. Grill them, cut side down, on a hot grill or in a hot grill pan, for 3 minutes. Remove from heat and chop into very small pieces. Chop the anchovy fillets into very small pieces and combine them with the tomato, garlic and olive oil. Let this marinate for 1/2 hour on the counter. Mix and use as a topping for bruschetta. Delicious!

Olive oil is truly Mediterranean magic. So many benefits in each bottle. And… that's all she wrote.

Worth county residents can boost their education savings with Iowa Giveaway

State Treasurer Roby Smith is celebrating 529 Day with the College Savings Iowa 529 plan by giving away a $1,000 account contribution. "The cost of education is rising, and saving ahead of time is one of the best ways to help your children prepare for whatever path their journey holds. Whether you have a newborn or a soon-to-be graduate, saving now could cost less than borrowing later," said Smith. "Worth County residents recognize the power of saving for future education costs and have more than $2 million invested with College Savings Iowa."

Recognized annually on May 29, 529 Day raises awareness about the value of using a 529 plan, such as College Savings Iowa, to save for future education expenses. "529 plans help make your money work for you. With the power of compounding – earning interest and then earning interest on those earnings – it pays to start saving now," Smith added.

There are also tax advantages for those saving with College Savings Iowa. Earnings grow federally and Iowa state tax-deferred. Qualified withdrawals are federally tax free and all withdrawals are Iowa state tax free. Additionally, Iowa taxpayers saving with the Plan can deduct up to $4,028 in contributions per Beneficiary account from their 2024 state income taxes.

College Savings Iowa is Iowa's direct-sold 529 plan and helps families save for future education expenses. Funds in an account can be used for tuition, room and board, books, computers, supplies and other education-related expenses at any eligible education institution in the U.S. or abroad, including two- and four-year colleges, apprenticeship programs and trade schools. Additionally, up to $10,000 can be withdrawn to pay for tuition expenses in connection with enrollment at a K-12 institution per year or used for repayment of any qualified education loan.

Lions award Hanson with scholarship

By JoAnn Lower

The 2024 Northwood Lions Club Annual Scholarship was presented to Madalynn Hanson, daughter of Jake Hanson and Tristan Hanson, on Monday evening, May 20th.

A member of the Northwood-Kensett marching band, concert band, jazz band and pep band, Ms. Hanson was also active in basketball, volleyball, track, cheerleading, National Honor Society, FFA, Math Club, drama and speech. She also served as math tutor, volunteer coach and class officer. Of all the sports she participated in, her favorite was basketball. "My dad was the coach," she smiled. When she has time, Madalynn enjoys baking brownies and cupcakes.

This summer Madalynn will serve as a lifeguard at the Northwood pool. This fall she will attend Iowa State University where she plans to major in Mathematics Education, eventually teaching high school mathematics.

How to find reliable health information online

Dear Savvy Senior,

How can I tell if the health info on a website is trustworthy? I usually do a Google search on a symptom, drug or health condition when I want to research something, but with so much information out there I'm not sure what I can trust.

Skeptical Sal

Dear Sal,

You're wise to be skeptical! There's an overwhelming amount of health advice on the internet today and it can be hard to tell what's credible. To help you sort through the online clutter and locate reliable, trustworthy health information, here are a few tips to follow, along with some top-rated sites you can turn to with confidence.

Savvy Searching

First, know that Google or Bing is not always the best place to start a search. You'll increase your odds of finding reliable health information if you begin with websites run by government agencies (identified by URLs ending in .gov), medical associations (often .org) or academic institutions (.edu).

Commercial websites (usually ending in .com), such as drug or insurance companies who may be trying to sell you their products, are usually not the most trustworthy options. To find out who's sponsoring a site and where the information came from, click on the "About Us" tab on the site's home page.

Also note that good health and medical information changes all the time so check the date that information was published to make sure it's current.

Some other areas you need be wary of include online symptom checkers and artificial intelligence (AI) tools. While symptom checkers do offer potential diagnoses that could fit your set of symptoms, they are often inaccurate, and tend to err on the side of caution says Ateev Mehrotra, MD, professor of health care policy at Harvard Medical School. AI tools, like ChatGPT, can also be wrong or generate false but scientific sounding information.

You also need to be cautious about using medical information from social media, online forums or YouTube. Comments in these places may sound authoritative even if the authors have no medical training or expertise.

Top Health Sites

While there are many excellent websites that provide reliable health and medical information, one of the best all-purpose sites that's recommended by Consumer Reports for researching symptoms and conditions is MedlinePlus (medlineplus.gov).

A service of the National Library of Medicine, the world's largest medical library, and part of the National Institutes of Health, MedlinePlus provides high-quality, trustworthy health and wellness information that's easy to understand and free of advertising.

Here are a few additional websites, recommended by the Medical Library Association and others, to help you find reliable information on specific diseases, conditions and treatments.

Cancer: National Cancer Institute (cancer.gov), American Cancer Society (cancer.org) and National Comprehensive Cancer Network (nccn.org).

Heart disease: American Heart Association (americanheart.org), National Heart, Lung and Blood Institute (nhlbi.nih.gov).

Diabetes: American Diabetes Association (diabetes.org).

Alzheimer's disease: Alzheimer's Association (alz.org) and Alzheimers.gov.

Public health and vaccines: Center for Disease Control and Prevention (cdc.gov).

Alternative medicine: National Center for Complementary and Integrative Health (nccih.nih.gov) and the National Institutes of Health's Office of Dietary Supplements (ods.od.nih.gov).

Any research you do online before seeing a doctor, be sure to save or print your findings out on paper, including the site you got your information from, so you can review it together.

Send your senior questions to: Savvy Senior, P.O. Box 5443, Norman, OK 73070, or visit SavvySenior.org. Jim Miller is a contributor to the NBC Today show and author of "The Savvy Senior" book.

Ponderings from the Batt Cave

By Al Batt writer, speaker, storyteller and humorist.

Echoes from the Loafers' Club Meeting

My wife said it was the most disgusting habit I have.

What did you say to that?

Nothing, but I almost choked on my big toenail I was chewing.

Driving by Bruce's drive

I have a wonderful neighbor named Bruce. Deep thoughts occur as I drive past his drive. I drove past Muskrat Lake. "Muskrat Love" was not playing on the radio. The psychologist Carl Jung defined synchronicity as a "meaningful coincidence of two or more events where something other than the probability of chance is involved." I led a birding trip to Rothsay, where we walked in a wet meadow to see greater prairie chickens. In the tall grass, I saw a phone screen glinting in the sliver of sun the day had given us. Water and sucking mud surrounded it, but the phone had fallen into a rare dry spot. I quickly found the owner. Just as the phone I'd found a week earlier, this one was brand new, too. What have I learned from these experiences? Synchronicity and that new phones want to run away from home.

Ken called to say that his father had died. Mickey Nelson of Clarks Grove passed away at the age of 103. I often hear at funerals that someone of Mickey's age had had a good run. Back when Mickey was a mere 99, he pledged to walk 100 miles before his 100th birthday. He did and raised well over $100,000 for the Salvation Army. Mickey hadn't just had a good run. He'd had a good walk.

Bad jokes department

What state is named after a color? Colorado.

What do you call the bunnies that live in your nose? Nose hares.

Does our language have a word containing all the vowels? Unquestionably.

I wanted to become a monk, but I never got the chants.

What four-member rock group never sings? Mt. Rushmore.

How do you fix frog legs? With tiny splints.

Advice for the graduates

Work hard at having good luck and call your mother.

Nature notes

Colorful spring birds are part of nature's sneaky plan to get us to pay attention. A concert performed by whistling rose-breasted grosbeaks thrilled me. Those birds are said to sound like a robin that's had singing lessons. Scarlet tanagers landed and monarch butterflies fluttered by.

If you're on a country road and see random lilac bushes, there was likely a house or farm there once. George Washington and Thomas Jefferson grew lilacs in their gardens. Margaret Millar wrote, "The smell of moist earth and lilacs hung in the air like wisps of the past and hints of the future."

Air rushing over the Wilson's snipe's outspread tail feathers creates a haunting hu-hu-hu winnowing sound. They usually produce the sound when they dive.

I heard, "Look at me. Way up high. Over here. In a tree." That's a mnemonic for the red-eyed vireo. According to Guinness World Records, a red-eyed vireo holds the record for singing the most songs, with 22,197 sung in 10 hours.

Lake Sagatagan, in the St. John's Abbey Arboretum, has a surface area of 176 acres with a maximum depth of 40-42 feet. A natural kettle or pothole lake with no direct water inputs or outlets, it's recharged by underground springs plus rain and snow from the surrounding land. The lake was originally called Lake Saint Louis after King Louis of Bavaria and changed to Sagatagan, an Ojibwe word for the punk or fungus outgrowth on trees used for tinder. I walked the trails there and listened blissfully to sandhill cranes calling back and forth and wood thrush singing, "Frito-Lay." Aldo Leopold described the songs of a crane as, "High horns, low horns, silence, and finally pandemonium of trumpets, rattles, croaks, and cries that almost shakes the bog with its nearness, but without yet disclosing whence it comes." In Greek mythology, the alphabet was said to have been invented by the god Mercury while observing cranes. Thoreau described the sound of the wood thrush this way, "It lifts and exhilarates me. It is inspiring. It changes all hours to an eternal morning." I took the time to feed the mosquitoes. My blood will grow baby mosquitoes that might bite me someday.

Meeting adjourned

In "Hey Jude," sung by The Beatles, the lyrics say, "Hey Jude, don't make it bad. Take a sad song and make it better."

That's pretty good advice. Then The Beatles go on, "Na na na nananana, nannana."

That's where everyone sings along, and that's when the Nananana to English app on my iPhone comes in handy.

Those words mean, "Be kind." Or they should.

Letters to the Editor

Recognizing a dedicated retiree

Dear Editor,

To my Dad,

I want to take a moment to say cheers for a significant, well-deserved achievement of the upcoming retirement of Daryl Love. It's an honor to write this letter and express my gratitude for all the years of hard work and dedication that you have put into your career. As his child, I can't help but feel an overwhelming sense of pride and admiration for the man who has been not just a father, but a role model and mentor.

Dad, your professional journey, that started many, many, many years ago, has been an inspiration to us all. You've shown us perseverance, integrity, and the importance to a strong work ethic. Your dedication to coaching has left an indelible mark here at Northwood-Kensett.

As you move into this new phase, remember that your legacy doesn't end with retirement. Your wisdom, values, life lessons, and stories will continue to inspire and guide us all. I have learned that the most significant achievements are not the titles you hold or the materialistic values you have. It's the connections, the measurable impact you make within a community, a person, or a child. Investing your time and energy not in what is but what can be. You stand out as a person who changes the world for the better.

We, your family, want to express our gratitude for the sacrifices you've made over the years and for the love and support you've always given us.

A couple of quotes from Dr. Seuss I would like to share.

"Kid, you'll move mountains. You're off to great places! Today is the day! Your mountain is waiting, so get on your way." "And will you succeed? Yes, yes you will indeed. 98 and three quarters guaranteed."

Dad, I can truly say you've moved your mountain.

Cheers!
Derek Love

Support for Bloomingdale

Dear Editor,

As County Sheriffs, we are grateful for the representation Jane Bloomingdale has provided our counties. She is always communicating with us and others in the district to ensure she is getting thorough feedback from the people she represents.

The job of a law enforcement officer can be tough, so Jane has fought for policies to help better the lives of those willing to serve in these positions. This session, Jane supported a bill that adjusted IPERS to give Sheriffs and Deputies a better retirement. That same bill also created a $2,000 tax credit for public safety officers who move to the state of Iowa to help cover moving expenses. These are creative and proactive policies to help with recruitment, keep our communities safe, and every one of them has had Jane Bloomingdale's support in the Statehouse. Jane has never wavered in her support for law enforcement.

We are proud to throw our support behind Jane Bloomingdale in the primary election. We hope you will join us in showing up to vote Bloomingdale on June 4th.

Sheriffs
- Kevin Pals of Cerro Gordo County
- Jeff Crooks of Floyd County
- Greg Beaver of Mitchell County
- Dan Fank of Worth County

Dear Editor,

Jane Bloomingdale has proven to be the kind of leader that we need to represent us at the State Capitol.

As a small business owner, I appreciate that she is always willing to listen to issues that we face. She understands that unnecessary over-regulation is detrimental to the financial success of businesses and their employees.

Jane works hard to make sure that Iowa remains a strong place to do business and understands the need to reduce the tax burden for everyone. Having been a successful business owner herself allows her to understand what it takes to create a positive environment to work in.

As a long-time school board member, I have worked with Representative Bloomingdale on many issues, and appreciated her attendance at board meetings to truly listen to the challenges our public schools are facing. She is honest in her answers and viewpoint and doesn't just tell us what we want to hear.

Jane is a commonsense leader, who makes decisions based on what she believes is best for her district. She approaches every issue in a non-partisan manner, putting politics aside to deliver the best results for Iowa.

I support Jane Bloomingdale because she truly cares about everyone she represents and has the best interest of Iowa and its people foremost on her mind.

Ed Kingland, who for several years was connected with the Lomen Auto Co. in this city as salesman and assistant manager, has purchased the King Auto Co. at Lake Mills and took possession recently. Mr. Kingland is a splendid young man in every way, knows the automobile business like a book and no doubt will command a large patronage in the Winnebago town.

The plight of the American farmer today was before the House, which probably will decide by the end of the week whether the McNary Haugen bill should be passed as a relief measure. The bill, which would set up a government corporation to market all surplus farm products abroad, will, under the plans of the leaders advanced by Chairman Snenmjkll of the riles committee, reach a final vote by Saturday with at least two night sessions.

The 3rd battalion of the 3rd Infantry, USA composed of about 300 men, including 11 officers, passed through Northwood on their way from Fort Snelling to Fort Des Moines. Included in the equipment were 64 head of livestock, a number of Army baggage wagons, several motor trucks and a war tank.

Fifty men gathered at the Masonic Temple and enjoyed a 6:30 dinner followed by a pleasing program of the Worth County Bankers Association. The meeting was presided over by President A.S. Lund in his usual pleasing manner. A men's quartet sang at the program; George Whitcomb delivered the welcome by Banker C.S. Rye, Hanlontown; O.K. Storre, candidate for state senator spoke on Community Cooperation; and the main address was made by A.M. Henderson of Story City, who spoke on Americanism.

The first activity in the list of events of Commencement Week was the Junior-Senior banquet held in the high school gymnasium. The baccalaureate sermon was delivered at the Baptist church. Dr. Milo Price principal of the Pillsbury Academy of Owatonna will deliver the commencement address on May 22 to the 29 graduates.

An uprooted tree on the Boyette farm, one mile west of Kensett, is an example of the force of Tuesday night's wind. Torrential rains and wind did thousands of dollars worth of damage in the area north and west of Kensett. The barn on the Ralph Butler place was destroyed when a funnel touched the ground.

Fallgatters of Northwood opened with an 11-4 win over Rake in the North Iowa Men's Fastpitch League May 23. Rich Kraft pitched a two hitter, and Fallgatter rapped out 16 hits. The local team exploded for eight runs in the fourth inning. Steven Bendickson led the winners with three doubles and Rich Kraft also had three hits.

The mile relay team of Mike Leath, Charlie Nowlin, Dan Robb and Al Hove won first place in the mile relay at the state track tournament at Des Moines. The team ran the mile in 3:30.2, edging LaPorte City, who took second with a time of 3:31.3. The Vikings earned ninth place in the class B meet with 14 points, which was won by another NIC school, Britt, with 41 points.

Barbara Ann Gordon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Gordon, rural Northwood, was named to the North Iowa Area Community College Hall of Fame at the 1974 Commencement. The Hall of Fame is a scroll which contains the names of those students, who, having carried a full-time load each semester, have achieved a perfect scholastic record for the four semesters they were enrolled.

Navy Aviation Electronics Technician second class Paul A. Taylor, son of Mrs. Vivian Tredt of Joice, left Alameda, California, aboard the attack aircraft carrier USS Ranger. The Northwood city council approved three contract proposals. Two of the contracts go into effect immediately, and one will take effective on July 24. The former includes a contract not to exceed $3,750 for the city's 1999 fiscal year audit and a swimming pool loan agreement with Northwoods State Bank for a sum not to exceed $200,000.

Northwood-Kensett High School students have been bugging Delores Knudson a lot lately. And she has the evidence to prove it. Knudson's list of little buggers doesn't include every student at N-K High, just the 29 who've taken her biology class this past semester. Just how much they've bugged her is evident in the swarm of colorful, handmade giant "insects" hanging from the ceiling of Knudson's classroom at N-K High. Knudson gave her students one week to choose a bug, build a larger-than-life representation of it, and write a report at least one page long describing it.

Children's Garden director Donna Bott said goodbye to her charges for the final time during the pre-school's annual graduation exercises. Bott stepped down after 11 years in the organization, including the last two as director. She plans to spend her newly acquired free time traveling with her husband Ed. Kristie Parks will take over the director's role when Children's Garden opens for its next term next fall.

Plymouth Elementary School's student Samantha Cooper and her classmate made sure the sweet cream in their individual jars got all shook up during their visit to the Worth County Historical Society's old creamery museum here last Wednesday morning. The students, all members of Laura Opperman's homeroom at Plymouth, learned that the longer they shook their cream, the butter it got.

Students in Northwood-Kensett's sixth grade classes took advantage of the nice weather and traveled to the Worth County Fairgrounds on Thursday to plant the garden in the "4-H" shaped plot. The students had spent time learning about what they would be planting and had plotted out their sections of the garden using squares of paper. With the assistance of several area Master Gardeners, the students planted tomatoes, cabbage, lettuce, onions, potatoes, radishes and variety of flowers.

Sophomore Tom Yezek, one of only two underclassmen to compete in the discus, gets off a throw of 157 feet and 7 inches, a personal record last Friday at the Iowa state Track and Field Meet. Yezek's throw would hold up for a second place medal in the event.

The Green Thumb Garden Club is highlighting homes with "curb appeal" through this October. Twice a month club members will choose a home with a beautiful yard. A sign with the program's name, "Curb Appeal," will placed in the yards of the most recent recipient and their pictures will appear in the Northwood Anchor. The first winners, chosen because their yard is a "Welcoming bright spot," were Rick and Diane Hanson.

N-K's Hattie Davidson, who is now a two time state track qualifier, had a week to remember last week at the Iowa State Track and Field meet. The talented sophomore took home medals in the 200 (fourth) and the 400-meter dash (third) while finishing 12th in the high jump. Davidson also anchored the sprint medley relay team that placed ninth.

N-K's Shelby Low rounds the first turn in the sprint medley relay last Saturday morning in Des Moines. The team of Low, Hattie Davidson, Tyra Sledge and Katelyn Jaspers set a school record in the event with a time of 1:55.29.

Storms struck the area last week, which included strong winds. Under the gusty conditions, several trees in the area fell under the stress, including these pictured here in Northwood.

Iowa Master Conservationist Program to begin in North Iowa area

Iowa State University Extension and Outreach will offer the Iowa Master Conservationist Program Thursdays, July 11, to August 8.

The program will take place at various locations across North Iowa each week, providing participants with hands-on interaction with the diversity of the state's natural resources. The program teaches about Iowa's natural ecosystems and the diversity of conservation challenges and opportunities that exist in the region. Graduates of the course learn to make informed choices for leading and educating others to improve conservation in Iowa.

The program consists of approximately 12 hours of online curriculum and five face-to-face meetings. The online modules will include lessons and resources by Iowa State subject-matter experts to be reviewed at the participants' own pace at home. Module topics include conservation history and science, understanding Iowa ecosystems, implementing conservation practices in human dominated landscapes and developing skills to help educate others about conservation practices.

Five face-to-face meetings will build on the online lessons and be held at Fossil & Prairie Center (Rockford), Mallard Marsh (Mason City), Worth County Fairgrounds (Northwood), Maynes Grove (Hampton), and Milton R. Own Nature Center (Osage) from 6 to 9 p.m. on July 11, 18, 25; August 1 & 8, 2024. Each face-to-face meeting will be led by local subject-matter experts to demonstrate how the principles covered in the online curriculum and play out locally. Local partners include the Landfill of North Iowa, Floyd County Conservation Board, Mitchell County Conservation Board, Worth County Conservation Board, Cerro Gordo County Conservation Board & Worth County Conservation Board.

Registration for the course is $75 and is due at the time of registration. To register contact the ISU Extension and Outreach Cerro Gordo County office at (641)423-0844 or online at https://go.iastate.edu/TT3DMB. The deadline to register is on June 30, 2024.

Bolan

There was a Vacation Bible School meeting held on Wednesday evening in the basement of the Bolan Trinity UM Church. There were many in attendance that shall serve as crew leaders and helpers where needed. The theme this year is "SCUBA diving into friendship with God." Local churches are all invited to bring their children to be a part of this "SCUBA" event. It will be on June 10 – 14 from 9 a.m. until noon in Bolan. The age group is preschoolers through completion of fifth grade. Older children are welcome to participate as volunteers. For more information contact Lori Willert at 641-903-9472; lwillert@wctatel.net or visit bolaniowa.com. Pre-registration is encouraged to have enough material and supplies.

Lori Willert and Linda Nydegger attended the Track and Field Sub-Section held in Wells, Minnesota, on Thursday afternoon. Evelyn, daughter of Larry and Michele Nydegger, is part of the NRHEG team. There were 11 teams participating. She took first place in the 300m hurdles, second in the 100m hurdles and second in the 200m dash. The team took first place, winning by two points. Next is the Section Meet which will be held at Mankato West High School on June 1.
